/ entrepreneurs who aspire to a creative, network-based organization / innovative CEOs who want to develop the collective capacity to create / social entrepreneurs

classic organizational structures do not reflect the flow of activities in a business. this runs the risk of not taking into account the people who are key nodes in the social network that makes up the organization.

by drawing up a map of the organization's social network, you can identify the key people. this inspires your leadership together with the leadership structure of the system.
